Indiana Association of the Deaf

August 29 at 3:57pm ·

Hello to everyone in the Deaf community in Indiana!

I want to inform you that Indiana Association of the Deaf (IAD) will host a special workshop which is Special Education 101. This workshop will talk about parental rights for children in special education and will educate about the process of Individual Educational Plan (IEP). This workshop will help parents to identify the needs and accommodations for the children and identify which teaching approach that are suitable for the children to succeed in school. Parents would learn what roles and responsibilities to take to advocate for their children's education and what is appropriate for their children. Parents will learn the process of complaints regarding their children's IEP. This is not only for Deaf children, this includes Deaf children with other disabilities. This workshop will help parents to ensure that their children in special education can succeed in school.

This workshop will be held at ISD (Indiana School for the Deaf) at Raney Hall in room 202 known as MPR (Multi-Purpose Room). The workshop will be from 10am to noon on September 14th.

I hope parents will be excited to come to this workshop to learn more about their rights for their children in special education. We will hope to see you all there! Thank you!!!
